Professional Profile

I am a junior web developer with a strong foundation in front-end technologies and basic knowledge of back-end development. Through personal projects, I have applied my skills to create interactive and functional applications. These projects have taught me teamwork and time management, preparing me to tackle professional challenges. As a university student, I am continuously improving my abilities and looking for opportunities to grow further.

Experience

I currently have no formal work experience but have worked on multiple personal and collaborative projects. These projects have enabled me to apply my technical knowledge and skills. I am now studying to become a full-stack developer and am ready to work on projects that prioritize usability and user experience. These experiences have prepared me to contribute effectively in a professional environment.
